

Maxcon Industries has been selected by operators of port and rail facilities to manufacture bespoke steel components as we have a proven record of manufacturing to the highest of international standards.

Ports and rail facilities are often situated in very harsh environments that require the greatest understanding of coatings and metallurgy to ensure product longevity.

By supplying components to the busiest and most remote ports across Australia, Maxcon Industries has continuously demonstrated our outstanding ability to fabricate steel items that live up to the harshest environments.